

REPATRIATE OUR PATRIOTS

UNTIL THEY ALL COME HOME

DR MURGA, it's an associate professor of sociology, graduate advisor, and associate chair of the department of sociology and anthropology at the University Of Texas El Paso (UTEP).

As a sociologist, Dr. Murga has focused on social inequalities, particularly those that impact undocumented migrants and Latina/o/x populations in the United States. In this work, she documented how social processes connected to racialization, immigration status, and gender affect the marginality of these populations.

Dr. Murga has utilized both qualitative and quantitative methodologies - including content analysis, ethnography, and descriptive and multivariate analysis - to capture the social mechanisms that reproduce social inequalities and to document the significance of these disparities statistically. Her research has reflected UTEP's mission of preparing students to create and disseminate knowledge, through engaged research and student mentorship, as they contribute to scholarship, their professions, and their communities.

Dr. Murga currently serves as the President for Repatriate our Patriots and has been actively engaged with case management, fundraising and community and strategic relations.
